

Mission Viejo Emergency RACES - ARES

Serving the City of Mission Viejo, California

Amateur Radio Operator,

Thank you for your inquiry regarding Radio Amateur Civil Services (RACES) and Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES).

The following is information about the Mission Viejo RACES and ARES organization and how to apply.

General Information

RACES ("race-ease") and ARES ('air-ease') are a volunteer segment of the amateur radio fraternity which has an interest in public service. Mission Viejo supports a RACES group which is associated with the city's Emergency Services Office. The members of the Mission Viejo RACES group decided they could better serve the community by holding dual membership in RACES and ARES.

As you know, during routine, day-to-day situations, city government, local Police, Sheriff and Fire Departments utilize their own public service communications systems. However, during widespread civil emergencies (such as an earthquake), it is expected that several problems may occur which would hamper these communications:

1. The telephone system, including special circuits, may be disabled by downed or broken lines and disruption at the central offices can be expected.
2. The commercial power system may fail due to downed or broken lines and failures at distribution points.
3. Police, Sheriff and Fire Department communications systems will be over-taxed with requests for assistance and damage reports.
4. Communications to other areas (county and state offices) may be disrupted for many hours.

Experience and test exercises have shown that most local governments can cope with the first two problems, but saturation of public service communications system is difficult to practice. Actually, any communication system will become saturated during a large scale emergency because there would be only a limited number of people available to handle the calls for service.

The practical approach to normal communication systems has been to gear the size of the system to day-to-day needs and available funds. Of course, this means an easily over-taxed system. Most non-military systems have little or no reserve capability. The RACES communications organization primarily provides an alternate method of passing information without requiring extra funding by the municipality. RACES and ARES volunteers donate their time and bring their personal equipment to provide this service.
